

Continuum Announces Strategic Partnership with Native to Expand Digital Asset Insurance Solutions Across Asia

Hong Kong / London – 5th June 2026— Continuum, a specialist risk advisory and insurance solutions firm focused on emerging technology industries across Asia, is pleased to announce a strategic tie-up with Native, a London-based specialist digital asset insurance broker.

The partnership brings together Continuum’s regional expertise across Asia with Native’s deep specialism in digital assets, blockchain risk, and access to the London insurance market. Together, the firms will support digital asset businesses, Web3 companies, blockchain infrastructure providers, and other emerging technology firms seeking sophisticated insurance solutions tailored to fast-evolving risks.

As digital asset adoption accelerates across Asia, companies in the sector are facing increasing pressure from investors, regulators, counterparties, and customers to demonstrate stronger risk management, governance, and balance sheet protection. Insurance is becoming a critical part of that infrastructure.

Through this partnership, Continuum and Native will work together to provide clients in Asia with access to specialist London market capacity, digital asset insurance expertise, and tailored coverage solutions across areas such as directors’ and officers’ liability, professional indemnity, crime, cyber, technology errors and omissions, custody-related risks, smart contract exposures, and other specialist risk classes.

Rob Russell, Founder & Director of Continuum, said:

“Asia is one of the most dynamic regions in the world for digital assets and emerging technology. But many businesses in this space remain underserved by traditional insurance channels. Our partnership with Native allows us to combine Continuum’s regional presence and client advisory expertise with Native’s specialist digital asset knowledge and London market access. Together, we can deliver more relevant, responsive, and sophisticated insurance solutions for the next generation of technology companies.”

Ben Davis, CEO and Co-Founder at Native, said:

“Native was built to support digital asset businesses with insurance solutions that understand how this market operates. Partnering with Continuum gives us a strong regional partner in Asia with deep knowledge of emerging technology risks, local client needs, and the broader insurance landscape. We see a significant opportunity to help high-quality digital asset businesses across Asia access the protection and capacity they need to grow with confidence.”

The partnership reflects a shared belief that the digital asset sector requires insurance partners who understand both the technical nature of blockchain-based risk and the realities of institutional insurance placement. Native's public positioning focuses on bridging traditional insurance with onchain finance, while Continuum brings advisory expertise across financial lines, cyber, professional liability, and emerging technology insurance in Asia.

The collaboration will initially focus on supporting digital asset and emerging technology clients across Asia, including Singapore, Hong Kong, Japan, and other regional markets where demand for specialist insurance solutions continues to grow.

About Continuum

Continuum is a specialist risk advisory and insurance solutions firm focused on emerging technology industries across Asia and the firm supports businesses operating in sectors such as digital assets, fintech, blockchain, Web3, artificial intelligence, venture-backed technology, and financial services. Continuum provides specialist insurance advisory across financial lines, directors' and officers' liability, professional indemnity, cyber, crime, general liability, and digital asset insurance.

Website | LinkedIn

About Native

Native is a pioneering global insurance broker for the digital assets sector bridging traditional markets with on-chain capital. Native combines decades of experience in both digital assets and global insurance markets to solve complex risk challenges. With access to Lloyd's of London, Native supports innovative protocols and platforms with a unique blend of consulting, traditional insurance placement, and alternative risk transfer solutions.

Website | LinkedIn

Media Contact

Continuum

Barani Htut

Sales & Marketing

barani@continuuminsure.com

www.continuuminsure.com

Native

Ben Davis

CEO & Co-Founder

ben@native.inc

www.native.inc