

The Stablecoin Infrastructure Problem

Where Regulation Meets Insurance Blind Spots

Infrastructure Concentration Risk

The stablecoin economy runs on infrastructure. And that infrastructure is uninsured.

Custody platforms, exchanges, wallets, payment processors = massive regulatory risk

Standard insurance doesn't cover the biggest exposures

The infrastructure is where the liability lives

One regulatory failure in the value chain = catastrophic liability.

Custody Platforms: Key Management Risk

Custody platforms secure private keys. Hacking, internal theft, key loss—we can source coverage for each.

Cyber insurance for breach and hacking risk

Crime insurance for theft and fraud exposure

Specie insurance for cryptocurrency asset holdings

Tech Professional Indemnity covers the platform's failure to perform its professional duty properly

We source coverage tailored to your custody model.

On/Off Ramps: Regulatory Exposure

On and off-ramps face transaction-level compliance risk at every boundary.

AML screening, sanctions compliance, KYC verification on every transaction

We identify what's insurable and what remains exposure

Regulatory risk requires specialized underwriting

Know your compliance gaps before regulators do.

Wallets & Payment Processors: Operational Liability

Operational failures and cross-border complexity create layered risk.

Wallet bugs and exploits cause direct customer fund losses

Payment processors navigate conflicting international regulations

System failures at scale amplify exposure across millions of users

Operational risk at this scale requires specialized protection.
